Breckinridge and Hancock.

By virtue of an act of the last Legislature, the foregoing counties are merged into one Legislative District, and will, in future have but one Representative. To the voters of Breckinridge—If you feel that my faithful effort and earnest endeavor to serve you in a creditable and satisfactory manner, in the last Legislature, merits some measure of reward. I would greatly appreciate your endorsement and support for re-election.

To the Voters of Hancock—Being a comparative stranger to you and feeling that you are entitled to know something about the man who is soliciting your support, and while I should much prefer that your information came from some other source, I feel that I am justified in giving you a brief introduction.

"COW HEEL"

Its Name and Fame Will Live as
Long as the Heart Knows
Passion and as Long as Life
Has Woe.

Now after reading this little speal,
You'll say his head is full of pied-up
wheels;

But oh, just give me a rod and reel,
And I'll live and die in old "Cow Heel."

Away back to the time, when the memory of man runneth not, Thomas Bohler owned a brindle cow that answered to the name of "Sally McGundy." She was of a friendly disposition and would wag her tail and smile when she would see Tom coming about milking time whistling "Home, Sweet Home"—it being just out. John Howard Payne had hardly finished the last note before Tom had it and was trying to teach it to Sallie McGundy.

But something happened one day that made Tom think:

"I would not live always,
I care not to stay."

But it afterwards made a name, likewise a little history. Sally was in a bad mood, but Tom didn't find it out until it was too late. She being familiar with the Marquis of Queensberry rules that dominate the prize ring, and at that time it was fair to bite and kick—she kicked. Tom lapsed into a state of innocuous desuetude for about an hour. After returning from dreamland Tom found himself reciting a stanza from Nehuchadnezzar, which runs thusly:

Is this me, or not me?
Or has the devil got me?
Was that a cannon shot me?
Have I lain here mor'n a week?

In a few days a stone bruise developed on Sally's heel—and that end of town being without a name, a mass meeting was held, headed by Os Holder, and it was decided to call it "Cow Heel."

For years afterward Sally hobbled around on three legs, using the other as a kind of rudder to guide her on her weary way. From one upper cut and a stone bruise she immortalized herself by furnishing such a pretty name for the loveliest part of Cloverport.

As you stroll down the beautiful Boulevards of "Cow Heel" on a moonlit summer's night, and stray into the enchanting rose gardens of Rue Saint Dennis, you listen to the katydids argue the much mooted question as to whether katy-did or whether katy-didn't. And then you wander into Saint Rose Court, where from the dome of the beautiful

GOOD ROADS
GOING OVERBig Crowd Hear the Speakers.
Are Enthusiastic for Good Roads and the Tax.

A large and enthusiastic crowd of good roads men and women filled the Court-house at Hardinsburg last Monday. They were there to hear the good roads question and the 20 cent tax discussed.

And under the able presentation of the question which was so plainly and eloquently put by the distinguished speakers who were present, there wasn't a man or woman present who were not deeply and sincerely converted to the needs and advantages of good roads and to the fact that it will take money to get them.

In fact the air both inside and outside the courthouse wafted the spirit of good roads and "vote the tax."

Men from nearly every district in the county were present and brought the good word that the tax would

Cathedral, the big bell tolls the knell of parting day and sounds the chimes at the coming of the morn'.

Then you move on down to Riverside Drive where the beautiful Ohio, shining like a mirror, flowing on and on, ever mute with its joys and sorrows 'Tis then you stop and ponder, "Could the waters speak as they flow, what a tragedy they would unfold."

"Cow Heel" is the busiest place in Cloverport. They have the railroad shops, three or four groceries, a blacksmith shop and grist mill, Saint Rose church and school, a good hotel and numerous boarding houses, and about 500 of the best people on earth.

Alas and alack, what would poor old Cloverport do if it wasn't for "Cow Heel" and "String Tow on the Hill?"

FLOTILLA WILL MAKE A TRIP ON
THE OHIO RIVERBeing Arranged by Navy Dept.
Destroyers, Submarines,
Chasers and Flying Boats to be Seen.

So that the people of the West may have a close view of the types of ships used in the War against the U-boat, the Navy Department is now assembling an anti-submarine flotilla to make the trip on the Mississippi River and its tributaries.

These ships and implements of warfare used against German U-boats are being sent to the middle west waters so that part of the country may have a full opportunity to have a close inspection of the vessels, guns and equipment which the Navy used in clearing the sea of the enemy submarines.

The flotilla will consist of the U. S. S. Isabel, a destroyer type, the submarine K-5, three submarine chasers and two flying boats, all of which with their officers and crews have seen active service in the war zone.

The expedition will be in command of Lieutenant Commander Thomas G. Berrien, U. S. Navy, who is now at the Submarine Base at Key West. The Isabel, which will be commanded by Lieutenant T. N. Vinson, U. S. Navy has sailed from the Navy yard at Philadelphia to join the other ships.

His Son, Orval Frank, and Makes Him Executor.

First, That all his just debts be paid. Second, That the residue of his property go to his son, Orval Frank. This included all of his property of every kind, character or description.

"I will said property to my son, Orval Frank, to the exclusion of my other children, for the sole reason that I have lived with him for the last ten or twelve years, and he has looked after and cared for me during said time. I feel that my other children, who know this to be a fact, will not feel that I intended to or have done an injustice to any of them."

He named his son, Orval Frank, executor of his estate without bond.

The will was dated July 23, 1918, and witnessed by Eliza Miller and D. D. Dowell.

Big Type Poland Chinas
The Farmer's Hog.

I raised the pig that won first in the Pig Club last year. I have them good enough to win again this year, if properly fitted, and they are priced worth the money too. These are the kind of pigs that go out and make good and please their owners.

In a few weeks I will be weaning some of the best pigs that I have ever raised. See them before you buy elsewhere. Here you get the pig you buy; no drawing for choice, no lottery. I sell hogs and satisfaction.

The sows of my herd come from three of the best hog-producing states of the Union. I have never let money stand between me and the hog I wanted to improve my herd.

I also have two males large enough for service from a litter of ten, choice individuals, for sale now.

The pork barrel is the end of the hog. I have the kind that fill it.

We are for good roads because we prefer to do business with our customers during their lifetime rather than with their estate after death and we believe good roads will lengthen the life of every citizen of Breckinridge county.
